

Start of the march to Londinium

You are Servius Felix, a legionary in the Roman Army, who has just completed the first day of a week-long march to Londinium. You have decided to keep a diary of your time in the army, so you need to write about today's events. Use your History and English work to help you add as much detail as possible!

Features of a diary entry:
Date
Write in the first person (e.g. I, me, my, we, us, our)
Write in the past tense for the main events
Include an introduction to set the scene
Tell events in a chronological order
Include personal thoughts and feelings.
Use words relating to time (conjunctions, adverbs and prepositions)

Remember I'm a legionary in the Roman Army. I have an image to protect, I certainly don't want anyone to think I don't know how to use capital letters and the punctuation below!

Some questions to think about:

- What time did your march begin?
- What is your armour like?
- What can you see?
- Who are you with?
- What are you thinking and feeling?
- How do you feel about continuing the march tomorrow?
